'Peace' Asked By Iran

Britain Reportedly Is Urged To Resume Diplomatic Relations

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—An Iranian source said Thursday night Iran has asked Britain to resume diplomatic relations with no strings attached.

The source said an Iranian note is on its way to the British Foreign Office.

The source added the move is considered by the government of Premier Fazlollah Zahedi as a test of British good faith.

He declared Iran expects Britain to reciprocate by quickly launching into talks aimed at solving the Iranian oil problem.

Relations Ended Year Ago

Relations were broken off more than a year ago by anti-British Premier Mohammed Mossadeq in a dispute over nationalization of properties of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. (AIOC). Zahedi replaced Mossadeq in a coup last August.

The Zahedi government faced a mounting political storm over its decision to renew relations with Britain. Powerful Moslem religious leader Ayatollah Khashani issued a manifesto declaring Iran cannot readmit British envoys unless Parliament approves. He insisted the oil problem must be solved before relations with Britain are resumed.

Dr. Mozzafar Baghai, Socialist leader, in a front page declaration in his newspaper Shahed said: "The unconditional relations with Britain is a dirty surrender to an aggressive enemy."

Hossein Maki, independent deputy, said in an interview: "The arrival of the first diplomatic mission to Iran will be considered the arrival of troops of black imperialism."

The government is expected to make its formal announcement of resumed relations on Saturday.

Fort Meyer Mishap Kills Fremont Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—M. Sgt. Louis P. Wilkens, formerly of Fremont, Neb., died of injuries received early Thursday when he apparently was struck by a car driven by an officer on the grounds of nearby Ft. Meyer, Va., the Army announced Thursday night.

The Army said Wilkens had been here since 1951 with his wife, Mildred, a 9-year-old son and two daughters, 5 and 6 years old. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Wilkens of (1025 East Linden Ave.), Fremont.

The driver of the car involved in the accident was held on a technical charge of manslaughter, the Army said, pending investigation by a board of officers named to determine the details of the incident.

The accident occurred in the early morning hours after Wilkens and the other man left a non-commissioned officers club, according to the Army.

Wilkens was serving as an assistant advisor of the District of Columbia Army Reserve School at Ft. Meyer.

New Title Claimant: 110 Descendants Reported

By MARILYN K. SWANSON
Star Staff Writer

Mrs. Ella Bodfield of 223 So. 23rd, who has 110 living descendants within the 111th due to arrive within a few days, is sure she holds the record for having the state's largest family, having as follows: eight children, 44 grandchildren, and 58 great grandchildren.

There have been 12 deaths in the family: two of her children, seven grandchildren, and three great grandchildren.

Her oldest child is a daughter, 64, and her youngest, a son, who will be 43 later this month. The oldest grandchild is 46 and the youngest great grandchild is one week old.

Two of her sons served in World War I. During World War II, one son was in service and three of her grandsons.

"They all came back too," Mrs. Bodfield stated emphatically. "Some of my children said, 'I shouldn't be so sure they'd all live but I told them I was praying and reading the Bible and I knew they'd all come home.'"

Mr. Bodfield, who was 24 years young on Thanksgiving Day, celebrated the date by visiting the Lincoln home of the eight children live in Lincoln and the eighth lives in Western.

The entire Bodfield family has never been together at one time because, as Mrs. Bodfield says, "There isn't a house big enough to hold us all."

She was born near Hickman in 1869 and was married in 1889. The Bodfields farmed near Bennet and Reola until her husband's death 28 years ago. She moved to her present address in Lincoln in 1931 but would prefer being back on the farm. "I just love to feed chickens and milk cows," she added.

Mrs. Bodfield does her shopping—walking to and from her home to downtown Lincoln. She lives alone, by her own choosing, and spends her time embroidering and sewing, in addition to her housework.

"Work is a pleasure to me," she explains. "I find that if I work, I have less time to worry about troublesome things. Everytime I get worried, I start working hard—I dig right in."

A lifelong Democrat, Mrs. Bodfield "hasn't missed very many times voting." She says that before she does "a lick of housework in the morning," she reads The Lincoln Star "all the way through."

Mrs. Bodfield's children are Mrs. Mildred Smith, Jack, Verni, Mrs. Margaret Adams, Lester, Harold, and Roy, all of Lincoln; and Andy of Union.

Has Biggest (?) Family

Mrs. Ella Bodfield of 223 So. 23rd thinks she may be the head of the largest family in the state. She has 110 living descendants with the 111th due to arrive soon. A native Nebraskan, she has lived in Lincoln for the past 22 years.

Muny Court Nov. Income Is $21,588.09

Municipal Judge John Jacobson reported Thursday that total of $21,588.09 was taken in by the court in fines and court costs for the month of November.

Of this figure, more than half went to the city and county treasurers for use by the respective schools.

State fines in cases prosecuted by the county attorneys resulted in $7,279.74 with allied costs of $352.25 going to the city treasurer for court costs. The fines go to the county for the schools.

City fines during the past month amounted to $5,839.70 which go to the city schools, and costs of $2,691.70 going to the city treasury for use in the general fund of the city in court costs.

Mrs. Harshbarger Of Stella Dies Here

Mrs. Velma Harshbarger, 32, of Stella, Neb., died Thursday night in a local hospital.

Mrs. Harshbarger was born Oct. 7, 1921, at Brookwater, Neb. She was a member of the Humboldt Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Howard; a daughter, Carol Louise; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robey W. Mehlin, Lincoln; three sisters, Mrs. Erma Catlin, Miss Mina Mehlin and Mrs. Verna Walker, all of Lincoln; and three brothers, Wilbur Mehlin, Phoenix, Ariz., Wayne Mehlin and Willard Mehlin, both of Lincoln.

Union Warfare Explodes

Sailors Fight Police On Frisco Waterfront

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rioting erupted on the San Francisco waterfront Thursday, but prompt police action prevented a major riot between some 1,400 backers of bitter labor rivals Harry Lundeberg and Harry Bridges.

Riot clubs and improvised weapons were swung when a hastily-gathered line of policemen headed off a mass march of some 1,100 of Lundeberg's AFL sailors against Bridges-backed independent stewards picketing the passenger ship Aleutian.

Six men were hurt in the clash, fought in a drizzling rain, but the continuing arrival of police reinforcements armed with tear gas and riot guns gave weight to the arguments of cooler heads.

Five men were arrested, one for carrying a concealed pistol.

It was the second flareup of the day on the waterfront near the berth of the Aleutian, center of a jurisdictional dispute between Lundeberg's AFL Marine Cooks and Stewards and the independent National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, which is in the process of being incorporated into Bridges' independent left-wing International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU).

Earlier in the day, an AFL attempt to break through the police line was disrupted by police after a brief slugging scuffle in which three men, one an AFL attorney, were hurt. None of the injuries was serious.

Some 200 police, in uniform and plainclothes, reported to the Aleutian's berth at Pier 39 after the first clash, but all but about 30 were sent back to regular stations after peace was restored.

Later in the afternoon, AFL members massed at their union hall near the Bay Bridge and began a march toward the Aleutian, two and a half miles away.

Alerted to the march, Police Chief Michael Gaffey put in a riot call for all available reinforcements and personally joined some 60 officers then at Pier 39. He deployed the police in a line across the 250-foot wide street at Pier 35, two berths away from the Aleutian, and waited the arrival of the marchers.

When the marchers hit the police line, the union men surged forward for a moment, but the police held. Another brief rush and night sticks and timbers came into play. Singing out the most active officers subdued them and rushed them to nearby patrol wagons. All the time, police reinforcements spilled from cars and motorcycles.

Fall Dampens Musical Spirit

If 2½-year-old Al Murphy of 2000 R St. didn't care for music before, he's got an absolute hatred for it now.

Al, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Murphy, fell off a piano stool Thursday afternoon and suffered a severe cut in his head. Motorcycle Officer George Biggers reported Al had to have 10 stitches taken in his head as a result of the fall. He was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Atrocities Resolution Is Approved By Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Assembly Thursday approved an American-backed resolution condemning atrocities by any government and expressing "grave concern" at reports of Red atrocities in Korea. The Russians protested with cries of "fake" and "libel."

The final vote was 42-5 with only the Russian bloc opposing the resolution. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, said the verdict proved true the American charges that Communist Chinese and North Koreans, acting on "conscious policy laid down by the Communists, tortured or killed 38,000 U.N. soldiers and Korean civilians."

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Russian deputy foreign minister, made a last assault on the American case after the vote. He denounced it as "a falsification, a fake and utterly spurious." He assailed the resolution as libelous and hypocritical.

U.S. Watches Closely

Lodge rushed the charges to the U.N. Assembly in late October following the demands of members of Congress for the delegation to do something about the tale of horror and death released in Washington by the Pentagon. The Americans have been canvassing thoroughly for support and they watched the vote closely as the end of three days of tense debate.

Here is the official roll call on the resolution submitted by the United States, Britain, France, Australia and Turkey:

For (42): Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, Iran, Israel, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Sweden, Thailand, Turkey, South Africa, Britain, United States, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Negative Votes

Against (5): White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Soviet Ukraine and Soviet Union.

Abstention (10): Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq,

Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Yemen, Yugoslavia.

El Salvador and Lebanon were absent.

India's delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon, said "not participating" when the roll was called. He had announced at the beginning of the debate that India would not take part because India is chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission now trying to dispose of prisoners of war in Korea.

The sponsors of the resolution avoided a direct condemnation of the Reds in order to gain as many votes as possible. But in the debate they said the Reds were to blame.

Soft spoken but nervous, Duane McLain, short, stocky 19-year-old admitted slayer of Karen Talbot, Rushville teenage girl, is "just waiting and hoping" in the Nebraska State Penitentiary here.

McLain is waiting for two things. While in Lincoln he will undergo psychiatric examinations at the request of his attorney, Frank Aplan of Rushville.

The youth is also waiting with hope for his trial Dec. 14 at Chadron, Dawes County seat. McLain ventured no opinion on the outcome of the trial.

"I always wanted to see inside one of these places," said McLain. "but I never thought I would be in and not be able to walk back out."

"Everyone has treated me very good. The beds and food here are better and the temperature is more stable."

McLain said he has been doing nothing to occupy his time. He has done no reading, he said, and has now stopped all correspondence.

His grandparents, he said, have been visiting him at Gering where he has previously been in jail.

What does he miss most? "My freedom," replied the ex-high school star athlete.

U.N. Coaxers Fail Again

... 90 POWs Lost

PANMUNJOM (Friday) (AP)—South Korean officers raced through the third day of explanations today to countrymen who chose Communism. They failed to win back a single war prisoner.

In the three days, 90 captives now in neutral custody have refused to return to South Korea.

The explainers abandoned the emotional appeals they used on the first two days, the recordings of stirring patriotic songs and rich folk music and the voices of families of the prisoners.

As a result, interviews were completed in the forenoon for the first time and the Allies asked for 40 instead of 30 prisoners in tomorrow's group. But an Indian spokesman said the request was made too late.

Officers read 4-minute statements telling the prisoners they had freedom of choice and reminded them that this was their last chance to go home.

News Around The Globe

New PW Conflict Threatens

TOKYO (AP)—The Chinese Communists said Thursday that the 22,000 war prisoners at Panmunjom must be held until the Korean peace conference settles their fate—no matter how long it takes.

The U.N. statement, broadcast over the Peiping Radio and monitored here, threatened a new and bitter conflict in the prisoner of war negotiations.

The Allies insist the armistice agreement provides that the peace conference can debate and perhaps settle the prisoner issue only in the 30 days from the end of the explanation period—midnight, Dec. 23.

The Allies say that by midnight Jan. 22, all prisoners become civilians and, if the conference has not decided otherwise, must be turned loose.

Murder For Pay

DENVER (INS) — Denver police said Thursday night 30-year-old Leroy Leick has signed a statement admitting he paid $2,000 to Gene Dukes, 20, of Denver to carry out the Tuesday night strangulation murder of Leick's wife Evelyn, 26.

Leick, bandaged and bruised from a beating he agreed to take from Dukes to throw off suspicion, signed the statement following an afternoon of intensive questioning.

Colonialism 'Support'

NEW DELHI (INS) — Indian Prime Minister Nehru contended Thursday that United States policy supports—even though it does not favor—colonialism in such areas as Africa and India.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a joint session of India's Parliament and its people by radio meanwhile he could not "emphasize too strongly that America has no ambitions of its own in Asia, territorially, politically or economically."

Nehru said indirect support of colonialism had resulted in some "anti-American feeling in Asia."

Strike Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—A special government mediation panel tackled the New York newspaper strike Thursday, but failed to get the city's presses rolling again. New peace talks were set for Friday.

There was no comment on the deadlock from the AFL Photo-Engravers Union, whose strike has shut down New York's seven major dailies for nearly six days.

Polio's 'Fourth Front' 1954

Top Objective

... Speaker Says

The "Fourth Front" in the fight against polio will open in 1954. Mrs. Beatrice Wright, assistant director of women's activities for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, from New York City, said Thursday night.

Mrs. Wright, a polio victim of the 1949 epidemic, was guest speaker at the Lancaster County foundation and March of Dimes committee meeting.

The "Fourth Front," she said, is the recently-inaugurated polio prevention program which includes the use of gamma globulin and polio vaccine. An additional $26½ million must be raised in the 1954 March of Dimes campaign to finance the program, she said.

There will be three times as much gamma globulin available next year, Mrs. Wright said, but there still will be a short supply.

On Feb. 8 the National Foundation will conduct the largest mass test of a vaccine in history, she said. Between one-half and one million second grade school children will be vaccinated with the polio vaccine discovered by Dr. Jonas Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, she said. Results of the mass vaccination program will not be completely evaluated until the middle of 1955, she said, but earlier experiments have shown that the vaccine will provide protection for at least eight months.

A few upperclass women were prevented from attending the University of Nebraska this fall because no approved housing acceptable to them was available. William C. Harper, director of university services, said.

Some other unaffiliated upperclass women for whom there was no room in University halls or dormitories are living in University-approved rooms off the campus.

Six University-owned residences for unaffiliated women on the downtown campus and College of Agriculture campus have been filled to capacity since the beginning of the semester.

In the Residence Halls for Women, planned to house 370 in student rooms, six additional students are living in similar rooms intended as parlors.

Condon Hits House Group Probe Action

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif.) Thursday night blasted House Un-American Activities Committee action.

A former Communist told the group Thursday in San Francisco that he met Condon in 1948 at "a closed emergency meeting of Communist Party members."

Condon said that to his recollection, he thought the meeting was a trade union affair which he and other members of a Democratic group attended in behalf of Democratic candidates for office.

The congressman said he was an attorney for the CIO when he first met the ex-Red who used to come to him for trade union information.

"I feel that it is very bad for a partisan Republican committee to come out to my area and attack me for narrow political purposes," Condon added.

"I will put my loyalty and affection for my country and my people against any of the members of the staff of this committee who have drummed up these fantastic witnesses" (Story on committee testimony on Page 7.)

McCarthy Disowns 'Challenge'

Write-Ike Campaign Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), disowning any idea of challenging President Eisenhower's leadership, called Thursday for a nationwide "write the President" campaign designed to reverse one phase of Eisenhower foreign policy.

Speaking out within 24 hours after Eisenhower warned against "coercion" of America's allies, McCarthy requested all who agree with his views to write or wire the President asking him to halt what McCarthy termed the "blood trade" with Red China.

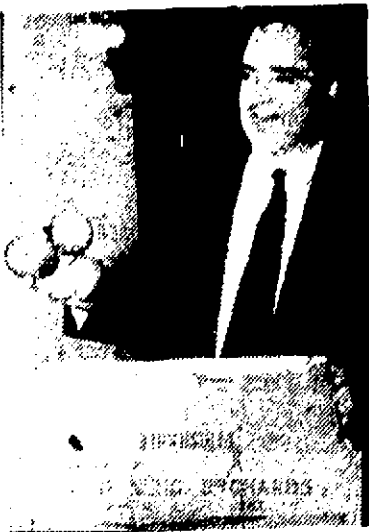

McCarthy said he is in "complete disagreement" with Secretary of State Dulles on the question of continued aid to countries trading with the Chinese Communists.

Dulles' stand, as set forth at his news conference on Tuesday, is that U.S. dollar aid to friendly nations "does not give us the right to dictate their trade policies."

The President backed Dulles to the hilt at his own news conference Wednesday and cautioned that "the easiest thing to do with great power is to abuse it."

McCarthy scoffs. Reacting to double-barrelled rebuffs from the President and Dulles, McCarthy issued a 600-word statement in which he:

1. Scoffed at suggestions that he was challenging Eisenhower's party leadership. "Ridiculous and untrue," he said.

Spies For McCarthy

2. Refused to retreat an inch from the previous stand with which the administration disagreed.

3. Called on Dulles to "reappraise our whole policy" toward allies trading with Red China.

It was in a nationwide radio-TV speech on Nov. 24 that McCarthy aroused the current furor over U.S. foreign policy and drew answering fire from both Dulles and the President.

Among other things, McCarthy demanding that the United States set up a free-world embargo against Red China by warning this country's allies — notably Britain — that U.S. Dollar aid would be cut off if they continued to trade with the Chinese Communists.

McCarthy said he wanted to make these points perfectly clear:

"1. It has been suggested by our political enemies that I am challenging President Eisenhower's party leadership. That suggestion is most ridiculous and untrue.

"2. I will give my utmost support to all Republican candidates for the House and Senate next year, because it is so important to this nation that Republicans retain control of Congress.

"3. I believe that the question of Communism will be an important issue in 1954, because the facts have proved that the Democrats represent the party of the left, the party which is soft on Communism. This will become more and more apparent as the full facts about the Truman cover-up of Communists become known."

Founders' Day Officers Named

William N. Mitten, president of the First National Bank at Fremont, was elected treasurer of the 1954 Founders' Day Committee meeting in Lincoln.

Miss Grace Trott of Lincoln was named secretary and Ronald Lucette, deputy secretary of state, was elected ticket chairman.

The Republican celebration, this year commemorating the birthday of the state, will feature men's and women's luncheons and an evening banquet—all events to be held at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Other officers, in addition to those newly named, include Walter Kiechel of Tecumseh, chairman; Mrs. John Knickrehm of Lincoln, vice-chairman; Dean Kratz of Lincoln, junior chairman; and Mrs. Gordon Randall of Omaha, junior vice-chairman.

In PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

A Future Farmer gets business training.

A condensation of Ross L. Holman's article on "Future Farmers of America" originally published in Think Magazine is continued:

The Future Farmer is initiated with symbolic ceremonies as a "Green Hand". Open to him then are three higher grades of membership. He first works for promotion to the degree of Future Farmer.

To qualify he must earn or productively invest $25.00, must learn how to lead a group discussion for a quarter of an hour, and be familiar with parliamentary procedure. He must also know the constitution and program of his organization.

The next advancement, the degree of State Farmer, is a real test of staying powers.

To reach this honor the Future Farmer must have two years of vocational agriculture and carry on an important farm program. He must also earn from his own efforts as much as $250.00, and must be in the upper 40 per cent of his class in all school subjects. In addition to these, he has to know how to preside over a meeting, lead a forty-five minute discussion group, and must have taken part in activities for community improvement.

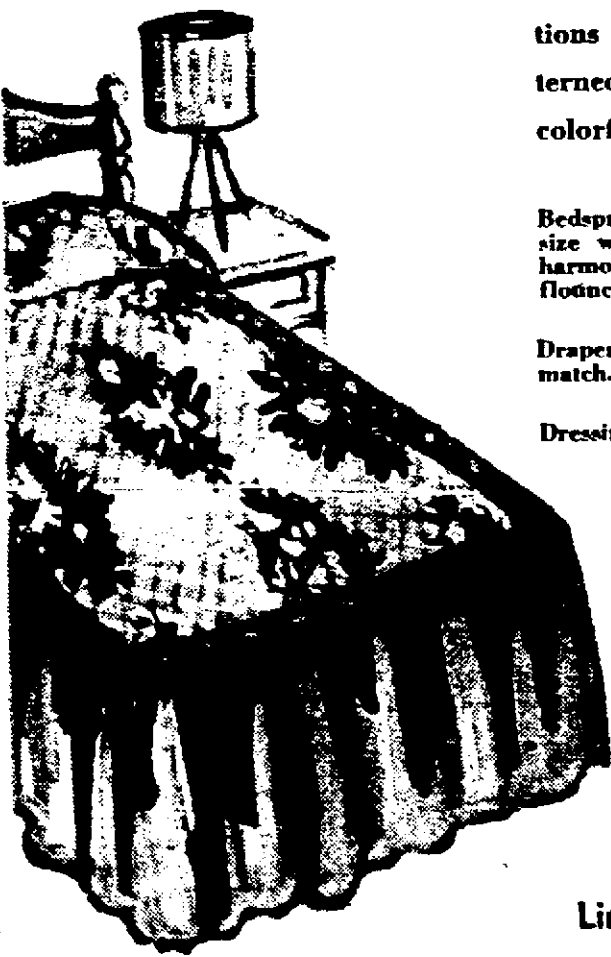

If he attains the next degree of American Farmer, he achieves what only one boy in a thousand reaches. He has to earn or productively invest $500.00, and must have had in operation a four-year program of farming on which he has shown wise planning, a healthy growth, and good management. His farm has to pass a rigid test by the state adviser. In addition to this, his bid for honor must be recommended by the board of trustees, and get a majority vote of the delegates at the National Convention of Future Farmers.

Future Farmer training does something to a boy that seems to distinguish him in any circle in which he moves. He can speak in any public gathering; he shows a better-than-average grasp of farm problems and rural economic conditions, and he takes a commanding lead in community enterprises. He learns from both teaching and practice proper soil treatment, fertilization, crop rotation, livestock feeding and management and everything else it takes to make a prosperous farm run smoothly.

This column runs Monday through Friday.

Strictly Off The Cuff

In his column on this page, Drew Pearson calls attention to President Eisenhower's warm-hearted espousal of soil conservation.

The president's fine words, however, do not match the recommendations made to Congress for appropriations to support these programs. A year ago, Mr. Pearson discloses, outgoing President Truman recommended Congress appropriate $15,566,000 for so-called watershed treatment to limit the damage of floods on small streams. Mr. Eisenhower cut this recommendation more than half — to seven million dollars. When Congress got through, the money made available was only five million. Mr. Pearson points out that Ike's budget knocked six million off the funds requested for the Soil Conservation Service and $110 million from the amount to be spent next year by the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Naturally the President cannot remember the amount of money made available for each activity of the federal government, but it is not unreasonable on the part of the public for it to expect deeds to fit the words.

Moral Of A Viaduct's Story

One trip over Lincoln's venerable O Street viaduct should be enough to convince a layman that it is a structure which has outlived its usefulness long, long years ago.

Now we have it officially.

An engineer of recognized standing, the head of the Nebraska State Highway Department, State Highway Engineer L. N. Riss, told the Lincoln Safety Council that the O Street viaduct is a safety hazard. Its 25-foot roadway carries traffic approximately 50 per cent in excess of the recognized maximum capacity for a two-lane structure. There are other hazards. The rough, obsolete construction of its floor, Mr. Riss said, has a tendency to cause cars to weave, a condition aggravated when the surface is wet. Finally, the steep grade of the approaches, particularly its east approach, introduces the surprise element to traffic utilizing it.

Well, what are we waiting for?

The continuing delay in replacing a viaduct built more than half a century ago is not chargeable to a manpower shortage, nor to a scarcity of material. We have materials aplenty; willing hands galore. We have the desire for a new, modern viaduct. We have everything but the money.

We are waiting—pious eyes turned heavenward—empty hands outstretched beseechingly—fervent hopes contributing to infinite patience—all to the end that a fat chunk of federal dough—federal highway funds—will fall into our lap to finance the costs of a new, modern viaduct.

Most of us criticize Big Government. Most of us voice the belief that states and local communities should assume responsibility for local developments to the end that Washington be stripped of the opportunity to mess in our affairs. We feel strongly about this. We want Washington to turn over to the local communities and the states much that now stems from the national capital. We do not want Washington to tell us what we shall or shall not do. Not by a jugful! We can do the job much better than Washington does it—much more efficiently and much more economically. We admit that we are much better qualified to run our affairs than Washington. Nevertheless if Washington has any money to pass out, we are not averse to getting a chunk of it.

Every time business or pleasure takes the citizens of Lincoln across the venerable O Street viaduct, they should remember that a revived sense of local responsibilities has made the use of federal funds for developments of purely local concern unfashionable if not questionable. We can do it better, we say.

Flying Saucers

The flying saucers are back in the news again. No one has yet been able to prove whether they are elusive or simply delusive, but the mystery of them hangs on.

Time and watchfulness will finally give the answer.

At this indefinite stage there is no cause for fear. If there are inter-stellar space ships they are being handled by individuals of more advanced scientific knowledge. Their advantage would make our defense against them unequal. But if that is so and it is true that superior neighbors are making use of our airways it seems to follow that they are not belligerent people. Of all the reports of flying saucers there are none that speaks of harm. And most of them would indicate that the strange fliers are more than concerned for their own safety among our primitive kind.

More probably such concern as has been shown about the saucers stems from a fear that they are a carefully guarded invention of one of our own nations, heightened by the fact that none with whom we are on good terms seems to be the owner. In that case we have cause for concern and a sharing of the feelings that other nations felt when they learned that we, alone, possessed the atomic bomb.

That is not the most flattering introduction to a strange audience, but it appears that the study of social security initiated by Rep. Carl Curtis of the First Nebraska District is attracting the attention of others beyond the boundaries of his congressional district.

"Comes now a younger GOP Old Guard—Rep. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska," says the Times.

"You will recall that old Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the committee (House Ways and Means), held up the study even of the White House proposals that social security payments and benefits be increased. Curtis is more heavy-handed and radical in his opposition than Reed . . . The most shocking statement of the week was when Curtis contended that social security benefits do not constitute a firm contract, or insurance in the normal sense of the word. One party to the contract—the government—can change the terms any time Congress chooses." Curtis noted. "Let's take a look at Mr. Curtis. He's 48 years old, and hails from Minden, Nebraska, where he could hardly be familiar with our industrial and metropolitan population. He always has voted against extension of social security and as recently as 1949 declared before Congress: 'The old age and survivors insurance program is grossly unsound and ineffective. . . . The proposal makes grandiose promises for the future. . . . It is my belief that benefits should be uniform in amount, and independent of previous wage history.' In other words, you have paid in increasing amounts as your wages grew, but when it comes time to pay back, you wouldn't get any more social security than the lowest wage earner. This would repeal the whole graduated insurance aspect of the law."

White's Investment

The Washington mightily can pursue the question of whether Harry Dexter White sought the downfall of his country by service to the Communists. Perhaps he did. But if he did he must not have had much faith in his work. His estate showed that besides $19,565 in cash, he left his widow $11,025 United States savings bonds. Apparently he thought the U.S. quite secure for at least 10 years. We would feel better if some of our impassioned investigators today felt as confident.

Christmas Words

Christmas brings a language of its own, deeply rooted in the dim past. Its words, mostly pagan in origin, now commonly denote peace and good will. But there was a time when they marched out to do battle for an old way of life and lost. They became hostage to a more noble human conception and became a part of it, never caring to go back home. But as we pen our Christmas messages it is interesting to know that:

Yule came to us from Iceland. It was a 12 day pagan winter holiday. The Icelanders gave it a new meaning when they were Christianized.

Carol is an old French word originally denoting a gay dancing song, as madrigal meant a little love song.

Noel was the French word really meaning Christmas carol. We have changed it to mean Christmas itself.

Santa Claus is an Americanization of St. Nicholas, Bishop of Myra, patron saint of schoolboys, now in charge of everyone at Christmas.

Christmas was and still is Christmas in its full meaning. Americans use the Merry, but most countries think Happy more accurately describes the occasion.

Ike's Own Farm Views Reverse Official Stand

WASHINGTON—Secretary John Foster Dulles' blast at Senator McCarthy was made only after the most careful consideration and after the State Department had asked American ambassadors all over the world to cable reaction to the McCarthy-Harry Dexter White-Truman controversy.

When a summary of these cables was placed before the President he was so shocked that he instructed the National Security Council to make a study of what could be done abroad to counter act the unfavorable publicity.

Without exception, every ambassador cabled that American prestige had hit a new level by the combined attack on ex-President Truman by the Eisenhower administration and the subsequent attack on the Eisenhower administration by McCarthy.

Some presidential advisers, such as Gen. Wilton Persons, didn't want the administration to tangle with McCarthy, thought he should be ignored, not answered. Others, however, sided with Dulles and the State Department, felt that a blunt statement must be made showing that American foreign policy was being dictated by the administration, not by the senator from Wisconsin. Hence the Dulles statement.

Note—A last year's Pearson prediction, Dec. 28, 1952, read as follows: "McCarthy's appetite for publicity will be stronger than his loyalty to the Republican party, and his eventual target will be Secretary of State Dulles."

IKES ON FARMING

Some of the White House staff have been trying to figure ways of curbing the President's pleasant "off-the-cuff" remarks. They're particularly unhappy about his agricultural ads.

Earlier this week, for example, President Eisenhower inspected an agriculture department exhibit showing the erosion to farm land when conservation is not followed. Ike studied the ruts and gullies worn by unchecked water; then, turning to Secretary Benson and newsmen, he said:

"I'd like to see the whole appropriation for this (soil conservation) work go up." He added that he didn't know just how much money should be spent, but he knew that the funds should be increased.

It was a natural offhand remark, and obviously Ike meant it. But it's going to cause some political embarrassment for the reason that it doesn't jibe with the administration's program.

Last January, outgoing President Truman asked Congress to appropriate $15,566,000 for upstream conservation. President Eisenhower, however, cut this figure by more than one-half to $7,000,000. In addition, Ike's budget knocked $6,000,000 off the funds requested for the Soil Conservation Service and $10,000,000 from the amount to be spent next year by the Agricultural Conservation Program.

WORDS VS. DEEDS

Personally, Ike has always been a strong champion of soil-conservation.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Churchill At Sunset Would Lead To Peace

BIG THREE CONFERENCE, Bermuda—The figure of Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill has towered so long above the events of his age that it is a touch incredible that he should be here for still another go at making history. It is as though Napoleon or the Elder Pitt had stepped out of the tapestry of the past to take a speaking role once again.

As Sir Winston enters his 80th year, the adjectives fail before the phenomenon of his persistence, his survival at the center of things, his refusal to accept the fatalism of drift toward yet another and perhaps final catastrophe. He wants to try at least one step toward the kind of negotiation that could put the world on the road to peace.

To suggest that he does not know the obstacles that he labors under—the wishful illusions of an old man, that he means to appease Soviet Russia if not kept under tight American rein, is, of course, to misunderstand Churchill's whole history. All through the '30s he stoutly resisted the appeasers in Britain who were so sure that if Hitler were only spoken to politely he would stop being so rude over and over again. Churchill said that the Nazis would respect only strength. His warnings went unheeded and at the 11th hour and the 59th minute the rallied England and the West.

It was the wholeness of the man, as he spoke out of the breadth and the depth of the range of values that had made the West great, which caused his voice to be heard in that hour. It has been said that this will be Churchill's last conference, his last effort.

But that is a rash assumption. At the time of his illness last June, which caused the postponement of the Bermuda meetings then, many were ready to count him out. But rest and the welling of his own inner resources have done wonders. When Secretary of State John Foster Dulles saw Churchill in London several weeks ago, he was astonished at his vigor.

The thread of history goes a long way back into the past. He tells in a roving commission of his earliest childhood memories. At the age of four he was living in Ireland where his father was secretary to the British viceroy over Ireland, the viceroy being his grandfather, the Duke of Marlborough. As a young cavalry officer out of Sandhurst he took part in the last cavalry charge at Omdurman in the Sudan. He was a war correspondent in the Boer War in South Africa. In India, as a young officer of the British Raj full of self-esteem, he played dashing polo. In World War I he knew Woodrow Wilson, Lloyd George, and all the great as a colleague and equal. The tragedy of the failed of the Gallipoli campaign bore him down but, as he knows so well, men have both good and bad fortune.

This reporter first saw him when he was in almost-complete eclipse in the early '30s. He was sitting at the back of the opposition benches, next to the late Sir Austen Chamberlain. The two of them slouched down, seeming altogether indifferent to the stinging flow of debate.

Churchill's career was ended, so they said. He had ample time to exercise his great gift for writing history, which is one of the reasons he will shortly receive the Nobel prize for literature.

It is singularly fitting that he should set foot on this little island at the summit of his career. For all the changes that have come since 1941, including several thousand motorcars, Bermuda retains in atmosphere an identity congenial to the Churchill temperament. Bermuda was a name that called up for the 16th century all the romance and adventure of the great age of discovery. It was the setting for Shakespeare's plays, "The Tempest," which breathes in the fine a balance what is noble and what is base in the spirit of man.

Churchill has not always in the past understood the tides of change. He has sometimes, in fact, stubbornly resisted the inevitable, as in his persistent belief that the British Empire could be maintained intact in an era of revolutionary change. But this small vestige of it is a symbol out of the past that Churchill has spanned.

There are no miracles in the old man, and he would be the first to say so. There is certainly no miraculous solution by way of any conference table, but the fact of his resistance to it is itself not to be discounted. At the climax of the victory in World War II the voters threw him out. A lesser man would have been crushed by that ingratitude, but he is here as her majesty's first minister and he may know the way out of this last and greatest crisis.

Heap Big Lesson: Pabulum For Papooses

By MONA B. PARKER

The Shelby Sun's young editor, Dave Hatt, recently assumed another title—that of "father"—and from all indications he handles himself much more adroitly in the newspapering field than in the care and feeding of his young son. He'll probably learn though, if Mike's constitution holds out. Editor Dave prepared the pabulum the other night; had trouble finding it, too, because his spouse had apparently hidden it. Anyway, he fixed it and fed it to Mike over that young man's vehement protest. Shortly the baby began to cry, and then began a session of burp-and-cry, burp-and-cry, burp-and-cry. About this time Mrs. Hatt took over, investigated to see what it was her husband had fed the baby. Tapioea.

Youngsters are getting smarter all the time, it seems. The Polk schools had open house, and Mrs. Reyner asked her first-graders this question:

"If I had two piles of candy, eight pieces in one and seven in the other, which would you want?"

One little boy said seven. The teacher explained to him that eight means more than seven, but he was way ahead of her.

"I know," said he, "but the eighth piece would make me sick."

Mrs. Helen Marr (Walthill citizen) tries to out-maneuver her young folks in the matter of the candy bars she keeps on hand for school lunches, but it's an unending game with no winners. She hides the candy upstairs, downstairs, anywhere, and as soon as the hiding place is discovered, she seeks a new spot. It is her determination to foil them yet, even if she has to hide them so well, she forgets where they are herself. A better idea, one that she is considering, is to keep two boxes on hand, leave one in the open for bait, and have the other when she needs it.

Mrs. LeRoy Ahndt, who lives north of Scribner, writes a "Farm Chatter" column for the Rustler that provides delightful glimpses each week into the home life of rural Nebraska. Some time ago the Ahndts bought a pony for their youngsters, and subsequently named the little animal "Lilyfoot" because of its white "stockings." Last Sunday "Lilyfoot" stepped on a nail and hurt her foot. When she saw Mrs. Ahndt, she rubbed hoof for her to see. And well, Mrs. Ahndt then and there took back everything she ever said about not liking horses. The veterinary was called, and he cleaned the injury, gave "Lilyfoot" a lockjaw shot, and wrapped up the foot. At latest reports, she was doing fine. Mrs. Ahndt's Uncle Charley didn't think much of all the new-fangled tomfoolery, though. His opinion was that turpentine would have done just as well.

When it's adult-vs.-child, anything can happen, but when two youngsters are opposed, it's usually almost a draw. The two Schwenck boys of Ashland had had a little misunderstanding about trading some prized personal possessions, with only an oral agreement to go by, so the last time they made a swap, they drew up the following "deed," properly signed and duly witnessed:

"I, Richard Schwenck, give my cowboy boots to John D. Schwenck for a cigarette lighter gun. I signed this in my right mind, so help me God. Signed, Richard Schwenck."

Arch Jarrell believes that bridge-playing is at best a perilous adventure, but when a man and wife are paired off as partners, it's absolutely explosive. In Grand Island, he remembers, one club experimented some years ago with the husband-and-wife arrangement as partners one evening.

"It has never repeated the experiment. I am told that the turmoil was terrific."

Two Nebraska publications took note of what it means to be without modern conveniences, even for a short time. With electricity off for two hours one morning, a Greeley housewife who depends on her kitchen clock for the time of day began lunch preparations at two o'clock in the afternoon. "It's been a long morning," she told her hungry husband. And Velma Price observed in her Newman Grove Reporter writings that old-fashioned kerosene lamps were much in demand during a brief lightless period there. "At one restaurant," she said, "even a hand-propelled egg beater was put into use again."

Oh, hardship, imagine having to use a hand-propelled egg beater!

On The State Level

Brock, Neb.

Tothé editor of The Lincoln Star: Gov. Crosby, in commenting on a recent article in Harper's Magazine called "The Decay of State Governments," replied to the question: "Can you name any areas where the state could probably take over from the federal government?" in part as follows: "I think that a great deal of the public welfare program could be handled at the state level."

He always manages to bring out that theme at every opportunity, but he never attempts to explain how "adequately" it could be handled. He meticulously avoids any attempt to justify his contentions by ignoring the inadequacy of Nebraska's present public welfare program, even with federal aid; by ignoring the fact that counties will not at present anywhere nearly provide adequately for their county relief recipients; by ignoring the fact that the federal government entered this field because the states would not do the job; and by ignoring the fact that Nebraska is not even now participating in the program of federal aid to the totally disabled.

The tragedy of the matter is that the governor goes through his routine, while in his heart he is fully aware of all these facts.

The Last Straw

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: My bread man has just told me I must pay 22 cents for my bread. This is the last straw. First it was a raise in bus rates, with fewer buses. Then water rates to impress the money lenders. Then the telephone, with rates already high. Then gas, with another 16 per cent raise in the offing.

Farmers are getting very little for their cattle, but meat prices are out of reach of many wage earners. We are at the mercy of the big corporations which make up the Chamber of Commerce. They are padding the bushes for Communists and digging up long-dead spies to take our attention from the way the wage earner is being exploited. Now it takes both father and mother working to pay these bills for a family. And the big corporations get richer.

The President has at long last got enough of McCarthyism as practiced by McCarthy, Brownell and Jenner, and has struck back. Let us home-makers follow suit. I can bake my own bread, cakes, etc. The wage earner has built up social security to protect him in his old age. The Chamber of Commerce are out to ruin that. They have Rep. Curtis to help them do that job.

I have had enough.

Have you?

Of Men And Things

"Seniority, not merit nor brains, has landed him in this position where he can affect the lives and welfare of so many of his countrymen," the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times says in its lead editorial of last Sunday's edition in commenting upon the activities of a well-known Nebraskan.

That is not the most flattering introduction to a strange audience, but it appears that the study of social security initiated by Rep. Carl Curtis of the First Nebraska District is attracting the attention of others beyond the boundaries of his congressional district.

"Comes now a younger GOP Old Guard—Rep. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska," says the Times.

"You will recall that old Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the committee (House Ways and Means), held up the study even of the White House proposals that social security payments and benefits be increased. Curtis is more heavy-handed and radical in his opposition than Reed . . . The most shocking statement of the week was when Curtis contended that social security benefits do not constitute a firm contract, or insurance in the normal sense of the word. One party to the contract—the government—can change the terms any time Congress chooses." Curtis noted. "Let's take a look at Mr. Curtis. He's 48 years old, and hails from Minden, Nebraska, where he could hardly be familiar with our industrial and metropolitan population. He always has voted against extension of social security and as recently as 1949 declared before Congress: 'The old age and survivors insurance program is grossly unsound and ineffective. . . . The proposal makes grandiose promises for the future. . . . It is my belief that benefits should be uniform in amount, and independent of previous wage history.' In other words, you have paid in increasing amounts as your wages grew, but when it comes time to pay back, you wouldn't get any more social security than the lowest wage earner. This would repeal the whole graduated insurance aspect of the law."

One Guess Who He Is

Then the Times adds: "To put a man in charge of the study of social security whose announced views and votes negate the program of the President and the Republican party and deny the solemn obligation of the government is another shocking result of the seniority system in Congress. . . . Mr. Curtis wants to change the law, not only to cut down the coverage but to reduce the benefits promised to those who have been paying social security through their working lives."

Mr. Curtis denies that he is out to weaken the social security program. It is his purpose—and the purpose of the study which he has initiated—to strengthen it, he says. Some of his colleagues are skeptical of the direction in which he is heading, even to the point of being publicly critical of him. Some have accused him of high-handedness—but generally the mistrust expressed at this time is inspired by earlier criticism of social security by Mr. Curtis. When the report which he is preparing is complete, it can be judged on its own merits.

Mr. Curtis wants to remember that 90 million Americans are making or have made payments for social security. They have full faith in their government. Any step by Congress to drastically curtail the benefits of social security which people have been led to believe belong to them would destroy that faith.

Study Shows Low Pay, Criticism Hurting Military Career Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military career service is losing its attractiveness because of too little pay and too much criticism, a special committee of admirals and generals reported Thursday.

"Unless the present trend of career personnel leaving the service can be reversed," they said, "most serious consequences to the national defense effort will result."

On the question of pay, the group said:

"Increases in service pay have neither approximated the increase in the cost of living nor increases afforded organized labor or even increases afforded civilian public servants. At the same time there has been an alarming decrease in compensatory benefits."

No specific increase was recommended in the report, but a committee aid told reporters that military compensation now is about 8 per cent below the cost of living index.

On the subject of criticism, the committee said it found "an unwholesome amount of irresponsible criticism of the implementation of our national military policies," and added:

"The more vociferous of critics aim their slanderous attacks at our military leaders, whom they refer to derogatorially, collectively and repeatedly as 'the brass.'"

"More recently 'the brass' has been extended to connote all career military officers as a class... able and conscientious men will not indefinitely continue in a profession dishonored by public criticism."

The study committee was appointed at President Eisenhower's direction last spring by Secretary of Defense Wilson. In making its report public, Asst. Secy. John Hannah said it will be "carefully reviewed." Its release, however, Hannah said, did "not imply approval or acceptance in every respect."

Among its conclusions and recommendations, the committee of two admirals and three generals said:

"There is a 'positive danger' that budget cutting considerations might be permitted to

Air Mail to Santa Claus

DEAR CHILDREN:

A long time ago there were so few people in the world that I used to pull my sled myself, from door to door. Imagine that! But when more and more babies came to earth I found I needed help in getting around on Christmas Eve. There are a lot of deer up here and those around Iglooville are tame. I love the animals and feed them and they come up to me whenever I go outside.

Among the reindeer were eight who were very smart, gentle, strong and very fast. So I chose them to pull my sleigh, and they seemed very proud that I did.

One did a lot of dancing around and I called that one Dancer. The one that pranced Prancer, and the one that dashed about, Dasher. One of the deer just flashed through the sky so fast that I named that one Comet, because a comet, which looks like a star with a bright tail, goes through the sky very fast indeed.

Then there was the one that always snuggled up to me, and rubbed her nose against my jacket, and wanted to be loved, the darlin'. I named her Cupid. The naughty one, who always plays tricks on me, I named Vixen.

There were two others. One is the fastest of all my deer. She just goes like a streak of lightning, and the other is so close behind her that you can hardly tell which one gets there first. So I called them Lightning and Thunder.

Now you will say, "Why, Santa, none of your deer is named Thunder, or Lightning." Right. But two are named Donner and Blitzen, and those words, in another language, mean Thunder and Lightning.

Love,
Santa Claus.

He will address the Nebraska Retail Jewelers Association in Lincoln Monday and the Nebraska Association of County Officials at Omaha Wednesday.

Olson Bid Is Low On Base Chapel Work

OMAHA (AP) — Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln was apparent low bidder on construction of an Air Force Chapel at the Lincoln Air Base, the Omaha District, Corps of Engineers, said Thursday.

The Engineers said Olson was apparent low bidder on each of two schedules. One was for construction of the chapel to include a morning chapel room. The second scheduled excluded the morning chapel room.

Olson bid $144,777 on the first schedule and $138,425 on the second. The government estimate was $148,505 on the first and $139,355 on the second.

At the same time, the Corps announced that a contract for construction of an underground gas distribution system at the Lincoln Air Base had been awarded to Abel-Dobson-Robinson of Lincoln on a bid of $63,930.35. Work is to begin within 10 days.

Ex-Red Says He Met Rep. Condon At Party Meet

Chicagoan Testifies In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A former Communist told the House Un-American Activities Committee Thursday that he met Robert L. Condon, now a California Democratic congressman, in 1948 at a closed emergency meeting of Communist Party members.

The witness, Charles D. Blodgett of Chicago, said it was a joint meeting of the Communist Party Political Affairs Committee for Alameda and Contra Costa Counties in 1948 at the East Oakland home of Gordon Williams, whom he also identified as a Communist.

Condon, for secrecy reasons, was denied admittance earlier this year to a Las Vegas, Nev., atomic test, but he denied being a Communist.

Rep. Condon told the House last July he believed the Atomic Energy Commission "did not fairly evaluate the information concerning me" when it barred him from witnessing an atomic bomb test.

He also said the atom test ban stemmed from "a rebath of stale political charges" and "hearsay" thrown at him by Republican opponents in his campaigns for the California legislature and for Congress.

Blodgett said the purpose of the meeting was to "more or less influence the content of the Democratic campaign of the Democratic candidates." He said this was done by running a candidate named Morris for Congress on both the Democratic and Progressive Party tickets against Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif.).

"Little Surprised" Morris was later identified by the committee as Luther Morris of Richmond, a unsuccessful primary candidate on both the Progressive Party and Democratic tickets.

"I was a little surprised to see Condon, because he himself was a candidate for office and I thought it was a little risky," Blodgett testified.

Condon then was running for the California assembly. He first ran for Congress in 1952, when Miller's district was reapportioned.

Blodgett testified this was the only Communist meeting at which he had ever seen Condon. Blodgett was asked by committee man Clyde Doyle (D-Calif.) whether Condon participated in the meeting. He replied: "Oh, yes."

Never In Contact A Democratic member of the committee, Rep. Morgan Moulder of Missouri, asked Blodgett, "Do you intend to infer that he (Condon) would be a member of the Communist Party?"

The witness replied, "I never knew of a non-Communist in attendance at a closed Communist meeting."

Moulder asked whether there was "anything in your knowledge that would show whether Robert J. Condon was a Communist at the time?"

Blodgett replied that he personally had "never come into contact with Condon as a Communist," that his only relationship with Condon was in his capacity as a reporter for the Daily People's World, west coast left-wing newspaper.

Earlier, Blodgett told a story of Communist infiltration into a small Midwest college and organization of a six-state Red-backed student assembly which drew support from national political figures.

Blodgett told the committee he now is a salesman in Chicago.

Cat By Any Other Name Is Skunk

A nose for news came in handy Thursday when a civet cat, odorous relative of the skunk—and more active at that—was caught in a rat trap under the steps at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Harris at 1029 So. 2nd.

The animal was quickly dispatched to animal heaven, scent and all, by Det. Frank Robbins of the Lincoln Police Department.

Alex Strauch of 144 D St., holds at arms length the remains of the cat which resented the whole affair and graced the Harris household with his everlasting fragrance before departing. (Star Photo.)

Congressional OK For Gen. Pershing Commemorative Coins To Be Sought

Sen. Hugh Butler and Rep. Carl T. Curtis of Minden will ask the next session of Congress to authorize the issuance of six million 50-cent coins in commemoration of Gen. John J. Pershing, according to an announcement made by the Pershing Foundation.

The coins, with a par value of 50 cents, would be sold in the U. S. for $1 each. The returns from the above-par sale would form most of the principal for a proposed John J. Pershing Memorial Fund to be used "for the teaching and dissemination of the fundamentals of American democracy as contrasted with the fundamentals of communism."

Dreams Of Walking End For Polio Victim

DETROIT (AP) — Janet Gray, 11, hugged a new pair of saddle shoes as another girl her age would cuddle a doll.

At night, she took the shoes to bed with her, laid them on the pillow, beside her pretty head. She dreamed of a dancing man.

Janet, a polio victim since 1950, died Thursday. Burial lay her saddle shoes without a scuff.

Stage Set For Bermuda Meet

TUCKER'S TOWN Bermuda (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Joseph Laniel separately lined up arguments Thursday to convince President Eisenhower on policies they believe the Allies should follow to promote a new phase in East-West relations.

A closer alignment of Western aims and actions is clearly the goal of each of the Big Three, who will open what may prove to be a historic parley on this British island colony in the Atlantic late Friday.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers — U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, Anthony Eden of Britain and Georges Bidault of France — are to set the stage with a preliminary meeting a few hours after Eisenhower's party arrives from Washington Friday noon (10 a.m., CST).

Then Churchill, as host, Eisenhower and Laniel will take seats at a huge mahogany round table set up in the conference room of the posh Mid-Ocean Club, sealed off from

New Gas Rate Hike Hearing Set Friday

The city's power committee will hold a public meeting at 10 a.m. Friday to hear further testimony on the request of Central Electric and Gas Co. for an approximate 16 per cent increase in firm gas rates.

Central officials, said Jeary, will present their case to the committee and any citizen who wishes to come to the meeting to express himself will be heard.

There is the possibility of some opposition developing to the increase. Jeary has received two letters from residents who have voiced their objection to the increase.

The mayor explained that if Central can prove its case, the Council could do nothing but grant the increase. The Company, he pointed out, is entitled to a fair return on its investment.

This return, he said, is generally considered to be 6 per cent. If the Council would not allow them to make such a return, he said, the company could take the matter into court for further relief.

Celebrations Are Planned For Chanukah

Jewish congregations in Lincoln have planned special celebrations this week end in observance of Chanukah, the festival of the lights.

Worship services at Tifereth Israel Synagogue and South Street Temple at 8 p.m. Friday will celebrate the event which began Tuesday. A reception will be held at the synagogue at 9 p.m. following the service.

Chanukah, which lasts eight days, is observed by the daily lighting of a candle and exchange of gifts.

The Tifereth Israel youth group will hold its annual "Festival of Lights" dance at 8 p.m. Saturday at the synagogue.

Both congregations have planned special parties for the children Sunday morning. The South Street Temple party will be held at 11 a.m. with a gift exchange and lunch. The synagogue party with a gift "grab-bag" will be at 10 a.m.

A family party will be held at the temple at 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Following the dinner, the children will present a program.

Kearney High School Flag Is Down After Week Of Efforts

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP) — The custodial staff of Kearney High School along with patriotic-minded citizens could rest easier Thursday. The flag was down. But it took a week of toil and trouble to bring Old Glory down from its resting place atop the staff in front of the high school. Sam Forney, head custodian for Kearney schools, told this story: The cord went off the pulley at the top of 60-foot pole, making it impossible to lower the flag. Custodians got in touch with the fire department, but it had no ladder high enough to permit a man to reach the top and replace the rope on the pulley. Custodians were not permitted to try to climb the pole. A search was made for other equipment and ladders high enough to reach the pole's top. Attempts were even made to contact a steeplejack to come to Kearney. Again, no sale. Then a search was conducted for equipment to lower the pole to the ground and make repairs. No luck. Finally, a long shaft was made to reach the top of the pole.

Fine Arts Ensemble Gives Brilliant Concert

By LOUIS CASIMER

One of the outstanding musical organizations of the region, the Fine Arts Ensemble, opened its season series Thursday night at the student Union with a concert in its usual brilliant style. The group appears under the auspices of the Friends of Chamber Music Society.

The first number, Mozart's Quartet in F Major, K. 580, is one of a group commissioned two years before Mozart's death by Frederick William II, king of Prussia. Since the king was an accomplished cellist, he expected an outstanding part for himself.

Consequently, Mozart wrote more elaborately for this instrument than was customary in the chamber music of that period. The themes are about equally divided between first violin and cello, with the cello often being given the dominating position.

Helena Bell, cellist for the ensemble, played the demanding passages with ease and brilliance. Particularly noticeable was the feeling of delicacy produced by all the instruments—each expressing his part with a genuine musical feeling.

The Schubert Trio for piano, violin and cello is written in the best Schubertian style with noble melodies, romantic melancholy and harmonic variation combined with contrasting tonal groups (strings opposed to the piano, in this case). In the first movement, the theme is not so much developed as repeated in different keys and with different color effects. The andante is one of the most serene compositions in chamber music literature.

In this movement and in the following scherzo, the imitative parts were most effective and exceptionally well handled by Emanuel Wishnow, violinist, Helena Bell, cellist, and Gladys May, pianist. The rondo provided an exciting contrast and finale.

The highlight of the evening's program was the performance of the Brahms' Quartet in A minor. This selection affords a fine example of Brahms' chamber-music style. The first movement is in sonata form, and the development is thoroughly polyphonic. The whole quartet has an air of reserve and philosophical meditation, presented in Brahms' usual musical perfection. The serenity of the second movement is matched by the charm of the quasi-minuetto. Only in the final movement does the work lose its reserve and give way to a forceful expression of energy.

The Ensemble gave a masterful interpretation of this difficult work, especially in the rhythmic passages which must be played with exact precision for their effectiveness.

The personnel of the ensemble includes Emanuel Wishnow, musical director and first violinist; Truman Morsman, violinist; Max Gilbert, violinist; Helena Bell, cellist; and Gladys May, pianist. The second concert of the group will be given on February 18 and will include compositions by Dittersdorf, Beethoven and Dohnanyi.

Old Age Rolls Lowest Since 1936

The number of persons on old age assistance in Nebraska continued to decline in October, with the figure now at its lowest level since the program reached full swing in 1936.

The Board of Control reported there were 18,779 persons on the old age rolls in October this year, compared to 18,861 in the preceding month and 20,321 in October a year ago.

Payments averaged $36.75 in October, reflecting the higher ceiling which became effective in September. September payments had averaged $35.97. The total old age assistance obligation for October was $1,065,741, compared to $1,055,732 in September.

The board reported 6,202 children receiving state aid in October this year, just 100 less than in October, 1952. The number of families drawing ADC payments was down from 2,500 a year ago to 2,378.

The total of ADC payments in October was $231,644, averaging $97.41 per family. A year ago payments for October amounted to $232,046, averaging $92.82.

Payments to 724 blind persons on the assistance rolls totaled $48,822 in October, averaging $67.43 per case. There were 715 persons on the blind aid rolls a year ago, receiving an average of $65.01 per case.

The last question mark on margarine is gone

NEW DISCOVERY ("FLAVOR-MARRIAGE")
MAKES DURKEE'S MARGARINE EQUAL IN FLAVOR TO ANY SPREAD AT ANY PRICE!

The new Gold Standard of Margarine

ONE OF DURKEE'S FAMOUS FOODS

The last question mark on margarine is gone. The famous Durkee scientists have discovered why ordinary margarine has always tasted a little "different." And they've found out what to do about it.

You see, margarine—like all spreads—is a mixture of two basic ingredients.

But when ordinary margarine melts in your mouth, the two ingredients come apart and you taste two separate flavors. That was the problem.

The solution was found in a new and secret process which the Durkee people have named "Flavor Marriage." It joins the two main ingredients in Durkee's so permanently they melt in your mouth together.

That's why Durkee's is the first margarine that doesn't taste "different."

Try new Durkee's today, won't you? Once you taste it, you'll never go back to the spread you're using now.

Nebraska Jet Pilot Jumps To Safety

2 Planes Collide At 23,000 Feet

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Two Air Force pilots escaped without a scratch in a spectacular belly-crash collision of their F86D Sabre jets at 23,000 feet Thursday.

The two Selfridge Air Force base pilots ejected themselves with automatic equipment and parachuted to safety. Their planes, plunging into open fields, were demolished.

The pilots, Capt. Henry W. Jones, 31, of Phenix City, Ala., and 2nd Lt. Robert L. Buss, 23, of Laurel, Neb., were flying in formation alone in routine training.

Jones said he signaled Buss to catch up and then went into a turn. Buss said he found himself overtaking Jones too fast and attempted to pull away.

The bellies of the planes collided because of the angle of the two turns in opposite directions, the pilots said.

Started Into Spin

"All I know is that I heard and felt a noise that sounded like a thump," Jones said. "Then I lost control and the plane started into a spin."

"I ejected my seat and rolled over and over. Then I undid the safety belt and the seat fell away. I pulled the rip cord and floated to the ground."

Buss said: "After the collision, I lost all control of the plane. I just shot myself out of it."

The planes crashed in St. Clair County at a point 35 miles south-east of Port Huron. One struck ground 100 yards from two houses on a private estate. The other started a brush fire nearby. Both burned.

A helicopter from Selfridge Field picked up the pilots near the crash scene.

At the base, Jones and Buss were asked how they felt. Both grinned.

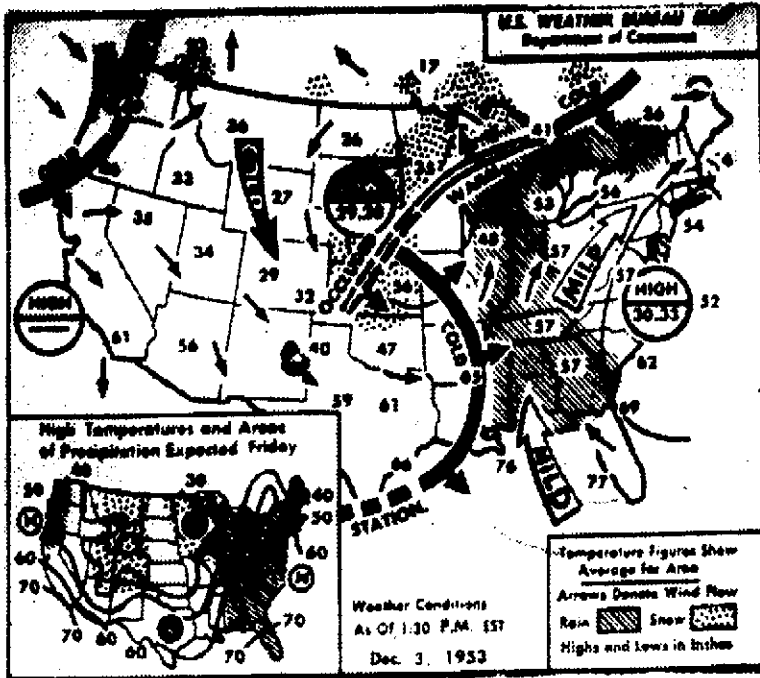

"I'm fine," said Jones. "This nick on my chin is from shaving."

Accident Injuring Three Attributed To Icy Highway

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Icy roads were believed Thursday to have caused a two-car accident on Highway 30 two miles east of Gibbon in which Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Fox, Pueblo, Colo., and Mrs. Edward Reese, Grand Island, were injured.

All three were hospitalized in Kearney. State Safety Patrolman Francis Dvorak said the Fox car went out of control and slipped sideways in front of the approaching Reese car.

Sleet glazed highways in this area before heavy snow began to fall.

Most Of Country Will Be Cloudy Friday

Most of the nation will have cloudy weather Friday except the western states and southern plains, which can expect fair weather. Snow and snow flurries are forecast for the northern and central Rockies, the western Lakes and the northern plains while rain is expected from the Mississippi River eastward to the Atlantic coast. Showers also will fall on western Washington and Oregon. Colder weather is expected through the Mississippi Valley and Lakes areas. (AP Wirephoto Map Thursday Night.)

Good Local Equalization Job On Property Tax Values Asked

OMAHA (AP) — A "good job of local equalization" in property tax valuations will be the main interest of the Association of Omaha Taxpayers for 1954. Executive Director Owen Cotton said Thursday.

The same laws and the same state administration that produced a 48 per cent hike in Douglas County property valuations this year will still be in operation next year, Cotton told 350 association members and business men at a luncheon. "But citizens have an absolute right to demand that local officials equalize assessed values of all Omaha real estate," he went on.

Support Crosby's Program

"We have the same right to expect local officials to do all in their power to be sure that all personal property is listed and fairly valued — operation honesty," he said. "We support those principles embodied in Gov. Crosby's program."

Cotton also suggested that the following be recommended when the legislature assembles in 1955:

1. Development of uniform standards for each class of property for use by all counties and the state. "This is technically simple, but politically difficult," he said.
2. Reclassification of property. "As of now 'town lots and improvements' includes industrial plants, retail stores, office buildings, hotels and apartments—and then your and my homes," he said.
3. Provisions for real estate assessments every four years with the option that they could be made annually.
4. Appointment of assessors after competitive examinations with minimum requirements of education and experience.
5. Better administrative procedure.
6. Better enforcement methods.

Dickson Will Head Washington State Public Institutions

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Fred R. Dickson, superintendent of the Boys Training School in Kearney from 1940 until 1944, has been named superintendent of public institutions in the state of Washington.

The newly created position to which he was appointed by Gov. Arthur B. Langlie gives him jurisdiction over 14 institutions at an annual salary of $15,000.

Dickson resigned his position here in 1944 to become associate warden at San Quentin Prison in California. In 1947 he was called to Nebraska to assist in reorganizing the state penitentiary in Lincoln.

Testimony Begins In Trial

2 Deputies, Surveyor Take Stand

OMAHA (INS)—Two deputy sheriffs, a surveyor and 24 exhibits opened testimony Thursday in the murder trial of Arizona horse trainer Joseph Kuykendall.

Kuykendall is accused of slaying his millionaire wife in their expensive trailer home west of Omaha last June.

Deputy Sheriff Bill Sherman was the first witness called to the stand. He testified that he was on his way home from work on the evening of June 18th when he received a radio call from the sheriff's office to proceed to the Almorat stables where a "disturbance" had been reported.

He said he took 18 pictures of the trailer, Kuykendall's cowboy boots and the body of Mrs. Kuykendall in an Omaha mortuary. Copies of the pictures, enlarged to dimensions of 16 by 20 inches, were among the exhibits submitted before the District Court jury of nine women and three men.

'Appeared Dazed'

Sherman testified that the 34-year-old Kuykendall appeared in a dazed condition and asked several times about the condition of his wife after he was taken to a Douglas County jail cell.

He testified that Kuykendall continued in a dazed condition for three or four days and was unable to "keep food in his stomach."

Two other pictures of the trailer, submitted as evidence, showed county officials examining cabinets of the trailer.

Sherman said the only article in the death trailer that actually was broken was a small china "piggy bank."

On cross examination, the deputy said he did not detect an odor on Kuykendall's breath.

Trailer Disorderly

He testified that the interior of the trailer was in a "state of disorderliness," with a lamp tipped over and clothing and linens scattered about. On cross examination, he said the condition might reflect a "poor job of housekeeping," and added that the sink was full of dishes and stagnant water.

The second witness was Earl L. Stewart, of the county surveyor's office, who prepared a diagram of the trailer and its furnishings.

The third witness was former Deputy Sheriff Claude Hender, who now lives in Long Beach, Calif. He said he was on patrol with Deputy Frank Hunt on the evening of Mrs. Kuykendall's death and received a radio call to go to the Almorat stables, west of Omaha. When he walked into the living room of the trailer, he recalled, "we saw this girl lying on the floor." He said they both checked her pulse and asked Lynn Williams, a friend of Kuykendall, to check her pulse.

'Nothing Wrong'

The former deputy said Joe Kuykendall, whom he pointed out in the courtroom, was seated at the end of a table in the kitchenette, facing away from his unconscious wife.

Hender testified he walked over to Kuykendall, who was stripped to the waist put his hand on his bare shoulder and asked "What seems to be the trouble?"

He said Kuykendall replied "There's nothing wrong. My wife just has a bloody nose. I'll take care of her."

Hender said Kuykendall asked for permission to clean up and change his clothes and was allowed to do so. He said Kuykendall's levis and shorts were stained with blood and he had blood on his chest and shoulder.

Before the deputies removed Kuykendall to jail, Hender related, Kuykendall asked if he could pick up some jewelry and "mentioned a figure around 50-thousand dollars." He said they gathered jewelry from closets, cabinet drawers, the living room, and the trunk of the couple's 1953 convertible.

Maxwell School Reopens After Damaging Blast

MAXWELL, Neb. (AP)—The Maxwell school, closed since a blast caused extensive damage to the classrooms Nov. 19, opened Thursday.

Newman Card, superintendent, said the building had been inspected by the state fire marshal and declared safe.

Most of the classrooms have been made ready for use. The exception is the school shop. A part of the shop wall has not been repaired.

An explosion, apparently caused by gas, did extensive damage to classrooms around the chimney. One person was injured slightly by the blast. Classes were in progress at the time.

Omaha Lumber Firm Yard Fire Probed For Arson

OMAHA (AP)—A fire that broke out almost simultaneously in three places in the Builders Lumber & Supply Co. yard was being probed Thursday by Arson Investigator Dan Mulcahey.

There was no connection between the three places, Mulcahey said. The fire was under control about 45 minutes after firemen arrived, although firemen remained at the yard until early Thursday.

A second fire was on the south side of the yard in a shed used to store insulation. A third blaze was in a storage shed attached to the yard office where finished lumber and molding is kept.

Owner Maurice Udes said the loss was covered by insurance.

Fire Destroys Peru Building

PERU, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—A fire, apparently started by an oil heater, destroyed a frame building in downtown Peru causing nearly $2,000 damage.

The building was owned by J. H. Ade, a commercial beekeeper, and contained some 10-000 pounds of honey and beekeeping equipment at the time of the fire. The contents of the building caused such a hot fire that phone and electric poles 20 feet from the building caught fire.

A lumberyard north of the building was threatened in the blaze but firemen prevented the fire from spreading by using chemicals as well as water in fighting the fire. Ade said that a considerable amount of the honey in the building will still be usable as livestock feed. Ade plans to continue in business.

Miss Barbara Barnes, Holdrege, will be her sister's maid of honor and only attendant.

Serving Mr. Ozenberger as best man will be his brother, Nelson Ozenberger, St. Joseph, Mo. The ushers are William Harris, Croton-on-Hudson, and Mac McNulty, of Columbia, Mo. Phi Delta Theta fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

THIS IS another morning of news—of brides-to-be—of travelers—of parties—of homecomers—and a bit of this and that and other things—such as—the new members of the Scribblers department of the Lincoln Junior League—the arrival of a brand new beau and belle—plus some Bassinet club news from out of town—All in all it's a nice, warm and rosy Friday morning—newswise—

WE mentioned one of our December brides—elect yesterday—Miss Jane Calhoun—whose marriage to Walt Weaver will be solemnized on Tuesday, Dec. 29, at St. Matthews Church, Episcopal. This morning Miss Calhoun is announcing the members of the bridal party which includes Miss Mary Lou Calhoun, who will be her sister's maid of honor; Miss Phyllis Loudon, Miss Barbara Bell, and Miss Sue Brownlee of Omaha, the bridesmaids.

Arthur Weaver, III, will serve his brother as best man, and the ushers will be Charles Battey, William Hodder and Louis Roper.

David Calhoun will give his sister in marriage.

NUMEROUS small and informal courtesies have been extended to Miss Calhoun during the past several days—and among the recent hostesses have been Miss Elva Baxter, Miss Mickey Walt, Miss Barbara Stephens, Mrs. Lee Stover, and Mrs. James Crabill and Mrs. Oril Barber who were brunch co-hostesses.

Next Saturday morning Miss Calhoun will be complimented by Mrs. George Stafford, Mrs. Fred Percioli and Mrs. Allan Campbell who have invited guests for an informal coffee at the home of Mrs. Stafford. The soon-to-be bride will be presented with a kitchen shower.

ANOTHER Saturday party for Miss Calhoun is the luncheon for which Miss Susan Reinhardt, Miss Jean Perrin and Miss Eileen Mullarky, all Delta Gamma sisters of the bride-elect, will be hostesses at Hotel Cornhusker. The 20 guests, all Delta Gamma sisters, will present Miss Calhoun with a linen shower.

THEN comes Sunday—and two more courtesies for Miss Calhoun—The first one is a morning coffee for which Mrs. James Stuart will be hostess at her home, and to which she has invited 16 guests. Miss Calhoun will be presented with a personal shower.

On Sunday afternoon Miss Calhoun's bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Bell, Miss Phyllis Loudon and Miss Sue Brownlee will honor Miss Calhoun informally when they entertain at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Bell.

DECEMBER definitely is vying with June this year in the matter of popular and attractive brides—Another of the late month weddings is that of Miss Mary Margaret Loomis who has chosen Sunday, Dec. 27, for her marriage to

Richard E. Moulton—and needless to say Miss Loomis' calendar is bulging with pre-nuptial courtesies—

A week from tomorrow Miss Loomis and Miss Calhoun will share honors at a luncheon for which Miss Barbara Dillman will be hostess at the University Club. The guest list will include Delta Gamma sisters of both the brides-elect—Miss Calhoun's bridesmaids, and members of Miss Loomis' old high school group.

J. Murray, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Neely.

AND THAT debutantizer—the brand new belle we mentioned—is none other than Miss Melanie Rohman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. (Ky) Rohman, who arrived on Thursday, Dec. 3, at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Miss Melanie's mother is the former Lorraine LaMar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold LaMar of Omaha—and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rohman of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve M. Lyons of San Angelo, Tex., announce the birth of a son, Michael William, on Dec. 3. Mrs. Lyons, the former Ethelma Findlay, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Findlay. Wright Diaries Disclose Pair Thorough Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Orville and Wilbur Wright tell their own story Friday of the moments of triumph and disappointment they lived in inventing the airplane.

Their philosophies—even their rare differences and disputes—are revealed in the Wright brothers' diaries, notes and hundreds of letters handed over to the Library of Congress after the death of Orville in 1948. Wilbur died in 1912.

The sum total is a composite picture that does away for all time with the need to apologize—as many writers have in the past—for the scientific background of the two young men who were the first in history to apply engines to wings successfully.

The diaries show the one-time bicycle repairman to have been brilliant, patient, precise, thorough-going scientists.

Correspondence Key
Oberlin College in Ohio sponsored publication of the Wright papers in order to "recognize fittingly the benefactions" of the two brothers to Oberlin.

The two thick volumes are published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Heart and core of the work is an exchange of correspondence between Wilbur Wright and a famed engineer and aeronautics student of the day, Octave Chanute. The volumes contain almost 1,000 papers from the Wright collection and about 250 from the Chanute collection.

Wilbur started the exchange in May, 1900, by writing from Dayton to Chanute, at Chicago.

"For some years I have been afflicted with the belief that flight is possible to man. My disease has increased in severity and I feel that it will soon cost me an increased amount of money if not my life. I have been trying to arrange my affairs in such a way that I can devote my entire time for a few months to experiment in this field."

Bird Flights
Wilbur went on to recount his observations of bird flights, and asked Chanute for advice as to a suitable locality for flying experiments—with steady winds of about 15 miles an hour.

Chanute gave a prompt, detailed and sympathetic answer. He said San Diego, Calif., and St. James City (Pine Island), Fla., were suitable, but that even better sites might be found on the Carolina or Georgia coasts.

In January, 1910, Wilbur complained to Chanute about articles in the New York World quoting Chanute as questioning the Wrights' claim to have been the first to maintain lateral balance in the air by adjusting the wing tips to different angles.

Chanute denied this and in reply expressed the grievance that Wilbur, at a dinner, gave the impression that Chanute had thrust his friendship upon the brothers.

Work of Value
In a lengthy answer, Wilbur brought in a new point: "As to inordinate desire for wealth, you are the only person acquainted with us who has ever made such an accusation. x x x We honestly think that our work of 1900-1906 has been and will be of value to the world, and that the world owes us something as inventors, regardless of whether we personally make Roman holidays for accident-loving crowds."

Chanute, in May, 1910, wrote: "I have never given out the impression that you had taken up aeronautics at my insistence or were, as you put it, pupils of mine. x x x I have never made any claims in that respect, but I may confess that I have sometimes thought that you did not give me as much credit as I deserved."

Chanute died the following November, with the breached friendship still unhealed.

In letters to their father, Bishop Milton Wright of the United Brethren Church, and to their sister, Katherine, and in other documents the Wrights tell of their aeronautical studies and of their persistent glider experiments at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Observations On Birds
Wilbur's notebook at Kitty Hawk in September, 1900, for example, contains these observations:

"The buzzard which uses the dihedral angle finds greater difficulty to maintain equilibrium in strong winds than eagles and hawks which hold their wings level."

"The hen hawk can rise faster than the buzzard and its motion is steadier. x x x"

"Hawks are better soars than buzzards but more often resort to flapping because they wish greater speed. x x x"

"No bird soars in a calm." Wilbur died of typhoid fever May 30, 1912.

The final paper in the two volumes is the last letter Orville wrote, to the General Electric Co., from Dayton just six days before his death in January, 1948, concerning the sale of a General Electric motor.

Crosby Sets Monday 'Deadline' For Highway Tangle Solution

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Efforts were being pushed Thursday by Gov. Robert Crosby to find some method to avoid a special session of the Legislature to pass highway legislation to correct situations in operation that the attorney general has held improper.

Called to his aid by the governor, in addition to the staff of the attorney general, was Walter James, revisor of statutes, and John J. Wilson, legislative bill drafter.

After an hour and a half conference, the governor requested that the combined group of attorneys attempt to find a solution by next Monday.

"I'm optimistic by nature," the governor said after echoing a unanimous sentiment that there be no special session. He set the hoped-for deadline on their report then remarked, "Then I'm going to be a little less optimistic."

Tax Situation Similar

The conference considered suggestions that courts would give considerable weight to administrative interpretations of the law on motor vehicle registration fees because the Legislature has not changed them over the past 26 years.

Others pointed out that on the basis of the opinion the same thing is being done in tax assessments where laws were ignored for more than 20 years during which the Legislature did little to make changes.

Another suggestion hung on the wording of the appropriation bill which permits spending "reimbursements," including federal road funds, for maintenance.

It was suggested to the governor that such action would be a "subterfuge," as the dollars actually were the same ones collected from the gas tax for other use and would not change because of use on federal aid roads.

The governor said that if no legal way to expend funds on maintenance of roads not statutory state highways is found, he will be prepared to act quickly in determining whether to call a special session. However, he conferred with Clerk Hugo Srb on time required for such a session and the cost. The last special session cost $3,000.

Meantime, Sen. Arthur Carmody of Trenton expressed the same sentiment as nearly all state employees opposing a special session.

Carmody termed the attorney general's opinion a "cloud of dust," and placed all blame for the present situation on the Highway Department for advocating LB 262 passed by the last session although the flaws in highway laws have been traced back 26 years.

The Trenton senator said that he opposed LB 262 on final passage because he did not believe the department should be given such "broad powers" as it provided. It was in this bill that the words "federal roads" was deleted.

Highway Department heads explain that killing of a companion bill to LB 262 results in part of the mixup as it would have provided for operation with the missing words.

"If a special session is called on this question, the Legislature would by their approval give what amounts to approval to the re-routing of some now highly controversial sections of road that could wait another year perhaps," Carmody said.

"I for one feel that no special session is necessary. I feel that Gov. Crosby can, by proclamation, take care of the situation in so far as maintenance is concerned and the next regular session of the Legislature can make any necessary corrections."

Veteran state employees say that not since the administration of Gov. Arthur Weaver in 1929 has a governor been blamed for conditions arising out of operation procedures that had been permitted to grow up over a long period of years before he took office.

Board Studies Nebraska City Firm Citation

The State Liquor Commission Thursday took under consideration after a hearing the citation of the Ace Liquors, Inc., Nebraska City on charges that answers as to names of stockholders were misleading when application for a license was made.

The commission further charged that controlling interest in the corporation was held by an agent for a wholesale liquor distributor in violation of state law.

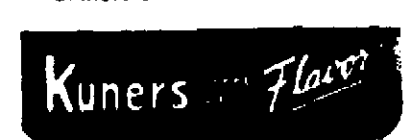

Mrs. James A. Sutton, in whose name the stock is listed, is the wife of a salesman for an Omaha liquor wholesaler. A son also is a stockholder and operates the liquor store, Mrs. Sutton testified that she considered it her own money that was invested in the store.

Sutton described how he first learned that stock in the company was for sale and informed his wife who eventually invested in her maiden name, J. T. DeLaney. Later when V. M. Lunsford, the other large stockholder and manager died, his stock was purchased by the son who had just graduated from university. At the conclusion of the hearing Chairman Tai Conrad dramatically announced that he could not reconcile testimony given by Sutton but that the commission would give "fair" consideration.

Earlier in the week a similar hearing was held on citation of the Ace Liquor Store of Fremont in which it was charged that Sutton was financially interested.

Director Urges Scout-Church Partnership

A "working partnership" between Scouting and the Church was emphasized by J. A. Brunton Jr., national director of the relationships division of the Boy Scouts of America, before Protestant ministers at a Wednesday meeting in the Capital Hotel.

The Scout movement "is rooted in religion, but needs the Church to give this training needed," he said in tracing the progress made in the "partnership."

Our three national church groups have set up a church award in scouting; for the Protestant group is the "For God and Country" award to Scouts for training and stewardship in their own church.

The national officer pointed out that half of the 8,000 Scout units in this country are sponsored by churches with the percentage running higher in urban areas. The Lincoln average was described by local officers as approximately 80 per cent.

In this age of decay in morals and decency in many parts of the world, the two groups need to stand shoulder to shoulder "to help young people to understand what they believe in and be articulate about it," he concluded.

Brunton, who has been in present post since November, 1952, has been in Scout work for 40 years and professional for 20 years.

Earlier in the day he addressed the professional staff of the Cornhusker Council here in Lincoln and in the evening the organization and extension committee and executive committee here.

New Postal Mark Near

Postal receipts for the Lincoln Post Office are headed for a record-breaking year with the 11-month total climbing over the $2 million mark for the first time in its history.

The 1953 total of $2,141,746 exceeds by $143,052 the 1952 11-month mark of $1,998,714. December receipts will boost the year's total well over the 1952 all-time high of $2,312,624.

November receipts of $229,244 topped the previous November total of $182,387 by $46,856.

Money orders climbed during November with 11,857 orders for $186,233 as against 11,132 for $164,991 for the same month last year.

Postal savings accounts continued to slump with 4,132 open accounts of $4,044,163 on deposit.

During November 335 U. S. Savings bonds were sold for $25,068 as compared with 332 bonds and $30,881 for a similar period in 1952.

Payne Pleads Not Guilty To Leaving Scene Of Accident

Forty-three-year-old Fred G. Payne of 4128 Randolph was released Thursday on $50 bond after pleading not guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Payne turned himself into police Wednesday night after his car was involved in collisions with five other vehicles between 18th and 17th Sts. on M. St. Mrs. Antonio Rumbaugh, 37, of 810 So. 8th was injured while she was standing between two of the cars that while parked were pushed together from the impact of the car driven by Payne.

Mrs. Rumbaugh suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis, but is reported in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

New 'Water Cannon'

BERLIN (INS) — Communist rioters in West Berlin have some additional bad news in store—West Berlin police have another "water cannon." The "cannon," a giant hose mounted on a truck, gives the police a total of four. They can sweep groups of demonstrators completely off their feet.

Ready For U.S. Training

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Two Spanish army officers left Thursday for five weeks' training at the U.S. Army's Ordnance School in Fuesen, Germany, the American Embassy said. They are the first officers to receive American training under the military agreement between the two countries.

Ex-PW Tells Probers Red Propaganda Mailed From Florida

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army sergeant who survived being shot in the back while a prisoner of war in Korea complained to Senate investigators Thursday that Communist propaganda has been mailed to him from Florida cities.

Sgt. Berry F. Rhoden of MacClenny, Fla., testified he received the mail after making public appearances in government bond drives on his return from the war. He said the propaganda was similar to that used by North Koreans who held him prisoner briefly in September, 1950.

SGT. RHODEN
(AP Wirephoto Thursday Night)

One of the letters was grossly insulting to former President Truman, Rhoden said. He reported the mail was postmarked at Miami, Daytona Beach, St. Petersburg and other Florida points.

Rhoden was one of a series of grim-faced witnesses who appeared before Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) to give chapter and verse on Communist atrocities in Korea.

After he was captured on Aug. 30, 1950, Rhoden related, a Communist officer handed him a card that read, "You are about to die."

the most horrible kind of death." "As I turned around, they shot me in the back," he said. "I pretended I was dead." Later, he managed, in spite of a nicked spinal cord, a punctured bladder and a cracked pelvis, to return to the American lines.

A 21-year-old Army veteran, who interrupted his honeymoon to testify, broke down and sobbed as he told how he saw "my buddies getting murdered with their hands tied behind their backs."

Roy Paul Manning Jr., of New Albany, Ind., regained his composure during a brief recess of the hearing. Then he identified an official Army photograph of the Korean ravine filled with bodies of his former buddies, saying:

"This is right where I was." Manning later told a reporter he stopped 11 bullets fired at him during three intervals of the same day while his hands were tied behind his back.

Senator Potter remarked that all the testimony indicates "it was a command decision on the part of the Communists to mistreat or murder our prisoners of war."

In New York Thursday the United Nations Assembly approved an American-backed resolution condemning atrocities by any government and expressing "grave concern" at the reports of Communist cruelty in Korea.

The vote was 42-5, with the Russian bloc in opposition and crying "fake" and "libel."

LT&T, Union Call Federal Mediation Aid

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company and Communications Workers of America bargaining representatives have turned to federal mediation as a possible solution to their wage negotiation impasse.

They announced that they would resume discussions Friday morning with Ed Jackson, Omaha, federal mediator, present. Company-union conferences were abandoned Wednesday after concessions by both sides still left a 2-cent-an-hour wage difference which blocked agreement.

The local union bargaining committee will be aided Friday by Curtis Bell, Washington D. C., non-Bell operating company director, and an Omaha CWA official.

Wednesday's impasse, second in the three-months long negotiations, occurred after the company had abandoned its original no-wage-increase for a series of concessions reaching an average of 5 cents an hour increase while union bargainers scaled down original demands for 10 1/2 cents an hour to seven.

Indians Unswayed By Nixon's Address

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon tried before a joint session of Parliament Thursday night—without a notable response—to explain American foreign policies. Indians made it clear they do not intend to abandon their neutrality or marked change their international views.

Aware of concern here over the influence of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Nixon told Parliament President Eisenhower will make U.S. foreign policy "and you can be sure the President will be supported overwhelmingly by the majority of the people."

"Resist Colonialism"
The visiting American official, Eisenhower's envoy on an Asian tour, emphasized that the President, who acts with the help of key advisers, is trying to insure peace by maintaining sufficient military strength "to keep men of the Communist nations from thinking they can start a war and win it."

Americans "believe Communist colonialism is still colonialism," Nixon said. "We intend to stand with the free nations in resisting that type of colonialism and (to help) other peoples rid themselves of the colonialism of the past."

He spoke before some 500 members of both houses of Parliament. Forty Communists boycotted the session.

Indian Vice President Saravalli Radhakrishnan expressed hope, in introducing Nixon, that he would report to Eisenhower on the aspirations of South Africa and Asia which "a vanishing past is trying to stifle."

Nehru Raps U. S.
After Nixon completed his speech, Radhakrishnan said "We have faith in freedom and faith in friendship with all nations."

Earlier Prime Minister Nehru accused the United States of supporting colonialism in Indo-China and parts of Africa — though he said there is no doubt it does not favor old-style colonialism—and again urged American recognition of Communist China as a "historical fact."

A critic of many phases of U.S. policy, Nehru told three American newsmen in a 35-minute interview there are differences in approach but no basic chasm between his nation and the United States. "No ill will by the Indian people toward the American people."

India advocates recognition of Red China as a nation rather than as a Communist state, he said, because "any policy based on non-recognition" is apt not to be effective. Nehru described it as "a strong state, but terribly backward."

Formosa Consequences
China wants to rebuild with machinery from abroad, he said, and "the more they get, the more they will broaden their shell."

Nehru conceded that American recognition of Peiping would have "certain consequences" in Formosa, the island stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government. But there are attitudes "all of us have to face as between war and possibly solving problems by other means," he said. The United States backs Chiang, driven from the mainland by the Communists, as China's legal leader.

Talking easily and affably, the prime minister expressed further opinions:
1—The chance of war is remote—"both sides are aware of the terrible consequences of war and therefore, however much shouting they do, there is a desire to avoid it." Concerning armament, he said "no practical statesman can say one should not have strong defenses against possible peril, but one can overdo it."

Strong Nationalism
2—India and many other Asiatic nations want the maximum amount of peace "to build ourselves up" economically.
3—The dominant feeling in Asia is nationalism or national liberation, "which leads to anti-Westernism with which the United States lately has been identified."

4—India's two major problems are the matter of improving her economy and the need for stronger political unity.

Asked about proposals to hold the Korean peace conference in New Delhi, Nehru said: "We are not at all anxious to have it here, but in all such matters, if others want it, we won't stand in the way."

$11,415 Payment In Box Butte Fund Shortage Is Urged

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP)—A representative of the Fidelity and Deposit Corp., Baltimore, Md., reported here that he has recommended payment of $11,415 to cover a shortage of funds which occurred during the time Mrs. Eunice Long was in office as Box Butte County treasurer.

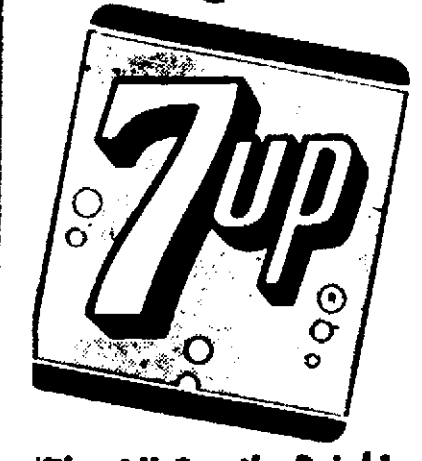

Mrs. Long was sentenced to two to five years in the women's reformatory after being found guilty of embezzlement.

State Auditor Ray Johnson said a "total of 1,200 man hours were spent in checking the county books."

Watershed Work Testing Explained

TOPEKA, Kan. (U)—A representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said Thursday he expects watershed projects being established under a five million dollar "pilot plan" to answer one of the most controversial questions in the flood control picture. That question is: How much effect will watershed soil conservation and water retardation programs have in preventing floods or in reducing flood damages?

H. E. Engstrom, USDA representative on the Missouri River Inter-Agency Committee, said he believed that pilot programs being established under an appropriation by the last Congress will provide reliable data on this subject.

Outlining the watershed program before a meeting of the Inter-Agency Committee here, Engstrom was subjected to questioning as to the effect of the program.

Vernie Alexander, Weather Bureau representative on the MB-IAC, said he had seen varying estimates that watershed programs would reduce annual runoff as little as 3 per cent and as much as 50 per cent.

"There is a lot of concern over the effect of this program, Alexander said. "There is a need for accurate data on the amount of reduction in runoff."

Engstrom replied that the USDA hopes to get such data from the pilot projects, six of which are located in Kansas.

He said success of the watershed projects will depend largely upon the extent to which local people and local agencies participate in planning and carrying out the program.

Local residents and local state agencies will be expected to bear at least one-half of the cost of carrying the watershed program to completion.

The Inter-Agency Committee, composed of representatives of federal agencies and the 10 Missouri Basin states, accepted an invitation of Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri to hold its next meeting at Jefferson City, Jan. 27.
